Bill Fleming, maintenance supervisor at the Hudson's Bay Company store, is shown as he lowered the store's flag to half-mast at 11 a.m. Thursday in observance of the two-minute Remembrance Day silence. This was the 23rd consecutive year he has performed this ceremony. Mr. Fleming has been associated with the Hudson's Bay Company for 25 years and holds the company's long-service medal with two bars. One of his duties is to raise the flag each day. He is proud of his flag-raising record. At Longstone school, Edinburgh, Scotland, he was the pupil chosen to raise the flag on the occasion of the coronation of King Edward the Seventh. From 1908 to 1912 he was maintenance supervisor at Merchiston Castle school in Edinburgh, and in that capacity it was one of his duties to raise the flag each day. This he did on the occasion of the coronation of King George the Fifth, and later as a resident here raised the flag on the H.B.C. store for the coronation of King George the Sixth.

5th Army Drives Foe From Two Mountains

By NOLAN NORGAARD
ALGERIES, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Skilled mountain fighters of the Anglo-American 5th Army stormed up the heights and drove the enemy from two mountains, including Mount Rotondo northwest of Mignano where the main inland road to Rome passes through the heavily fortified line that Nazi headquarters have been ordered to hold until New Year's Allied headquarters announced today.

American troops, making up the right wing of the 5th Army, smashed forward against German counterattacks to the peak of Mount Rotondo overlooking the broad valley leading to Cassino, eight miles north of Mignano. An air force statement disclosed that the Germans are blasting and wrecking ships and port facilities at both the west and east coast ports of Leghorn and Pescara, either in preparation for evacuation of those places or in fear of their seizure by Allied amphibious forces.

They Fought the Good Fight Civic Election Candidates Pay Whole-Hearted Tribute To Bulletin News Coverage

Complete coverage given by The Edmonton Bulletin to the five municipal election meetings which culminated in the voting Wednesday drew from candidates both successful and unsuccessful whole-hearted, unstinted praise.

Candidates gave expression to the praise of the fairness and accuracy of the reports, as well as the volume of space set aside for the reporting of the meetings.

The complete news gathering and news writing facilities of The Bulletin were placed at the disposal of candidates. Despite the restrictions of space brought about by the rationing placed at the disposal of advertising in reporting these meetings.

Two major considerations were involved in devoting such a great deal of space to the meetings. In the first place it was felt that the candidates should have every opportunity of presenting their views to the electors. In the second place it was desired to present these views to the electors in a way that they could weigh the arguments and so better make up their minds as to whom they would vote for when they went to the polls.

CANDIDATES COMMENT
Below are some of the tributes paid to The Bulletin, and comments by candidates:

MAYOR JOHN W. FRY: In the first place I want to pay a warm tribute to Mr. Cairns, who made a splendid run. It was a great test to public life and he acquitted himself with credit.

Miners Ready Further Discuss Strike Details

Meet Today
Miners of Sub-District No. 3 of District No. 18, United Mine Workers of America gathered here Thursday to attend the adjourned meeting of their organization at the Labor Hall at 12 a.m. The gathering was adjourned Tuesday after a two-hour discussion during which the whole strike situation had been reviewed and a decision reached to continue the strike until all demands were met.

The demands are for a $2 a day increase in pay; two weeks holiday with pay each year and time and a half for holidays.

In the meantime coal reserves in the city are dwindling rapidly and, despite the influx of small amounts of coal, the new supplies do not equal the 200 tons consumed each day at the power plant.

Officials of the power plant stated that only a continuation of the mild weather has prevented the precipitation of a serious situation, which undoubtedly would create great hardship. It was pointed out that at this time of the year the weather is an unknown and variable quantity that might change at any time.

Robert Livett, president of District No. 18, U.M.W.A., has expressed his confidence in the miners.

Vote Second Lowest In Last Ten Years, 10,442 Ballots Cast

Mayor John W. Fry was re-elected for his seventh consecutive term of office in Wednesday's municipal election by a majority of 4,191 over his opponent Thomas J. Cairns. The vote for Mayor Fry was 7,270, and for Mr. Cairns, 3,079. Both candidates ran as Independents.

The Citizens' Committee candidates for the school board again carried all the seats, electing four, to maintain the Committee's exclusive control of the school board.

In the aldermanic battle four of the five Citizens' Committee candidates were elected, with one C.C.F.-Labor Party candidate taking the other seat. The election saw the passing from the city council of two Civic Progressive Association representatives, Mrs. J. A. Clarke and Guy Patterson, K.C.

Composition of New Council

The new council will be composed of nine Citizens' Committee representatives and one C.C.F.-Labor Party member. All representatives on the school board are nominees of the Citizens' Committee.

The vote in Wednesday's election was the second lowest in a decade with 10,442 ballots being marked for an average of approximately 18 per cent by the 58,406 voters on the lists. The lowest vote in recent years was cast in 1942 when 8,208 electors marked ballots for a 14.2 per cent of the names on the lists.

The record vote cast in recent years was in 1934 when 27,883 marked ballots for a 46.7 per cent of the voters' list total, and the second highest was in 1936 when 23,390 voted to gain a 31.8 per cent.

In Oakes Case

Chief Justice Begins Charge To Murder Jury

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 11.—Chief Justice Sir Oscar Bedford Day today began his charge to the Bahamas supreme court jury trying Alfred de Marigny for the slaying of Sir Harry Oakes, after Attorney General Eric Hallinan had defended the propriety of fingerprinting evidence against the accused son-in-law.

There was no advance indication of how much time he would require to instruct the jurors on the points of law and evidence which they must decide.

Hallinan did not finish his first charge yesterday, and was allowed one hour today for completing his charge.

TRIES CONVINCE JURY
He devoted the time to an attempt to convince the jury that the fingerprinting on exhibit with which de Marigny had been charged was not his, but that of the accused son-in-law.

Defence counsel had charged that the print was false.

Hallinan defended the method used in obtaining the print, and declared that de Marigny could have made the impression after Sir Harry's body was discovered.

The chief justice's charge came after 20 days of testimony and one day of final argument.

"No man in the empire, even in case of war, can be found guilty except on a verdict of a jury," said the chief justice.

"The law of evidence is not to be broken into our bones, you will not rush, but will reach a decision calmly and with deliberation."

THANKS COUNSEL
He thanked counsel for able representation on both sides.

"Still, we are not to be misled by the evidence," he said.

MOSCOW, Nov. 11.—The Red Army plunged to within 90 miles of the old Polish frontier today in a fan-out beyond Kiev described as the prelude to a new series of Soviet hammer blows designed to hurl the Germans out of the Ukraine and aggravate their plight on other fronts.

As a Russian column sped westward along Kiev highway some 28 miles from Zhitomir, key junction and Nazi base for the west Ukraine, military quarters indicated that Marshal Joseph Stalin was reading his army for its winter campaign.

Winter—Red Army "fighting weather"—was creeping down from the north, and new thrusts were in the making. There was a limited number of gunners when the blow would fall, but the first objective appeared to be the complete liberation of the Ukraine.

DRIVE ON ZHITOMIR
While the middle columns of Gen. Nikolai V. Vatutin's First Ukrainian Army drove against Zhitomir, those northwest and southwest of Kiev advanced steadily to keep both flanks in order.

Tactically, Vatutin's army was spreading like oil on water, sweeping through the retreating enemy forces and seeking the weak point for the next shattering blow.

A German communication reported that renewed Soviet attacks on the Kerc peninsula of the eastern Crimea had been repulsed.

C.C.F. Won't Use Force to Achieve Power

Coldwell Says:
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1943, by British United Press
OTTAWA, Nov. 11.—The Co-operative Commonwealth Federation has never been nor ever will be a party to achieve power by the use of force, except the force of the ballot demonstrated," said M. J. Coldwell, M.P., federal leader of the C.C.F., said here last night.

Coldwell was commenting on statements attributed to Harold Winch, British Columbia C.C.F. leader, at a public meeting in Calgary Tuesday night.

"Winch was quoted as saying in his speech that the C.C.F. was a party of the people, and that the power of the police and military would be used to deal with opposition. Those who defy the government will be treated like any other criminals."

REMARKS 'MISLEADING'
Coldwell said the remarks attributed to Winch were "misleading." He said that because the original question asked Winch was not included in the press dispatches, the British Columbia leader's answers were given a very different meaning.

Referring to Winch's statement concerning the use of the police and military to support a C.C.F. government, Coldwell said:

"The answer to the question is misleading. The question probably was 'If the C.C.F. is elected to federal power, will the party attempt to introduce socialization without the use of force?'"

"Mr. Winch no doubt said that if any group of people were to resist any other government would do so by force, the C.C.F. government, if elected, would do so by force. The powers of the police to enforce the law are not to be used to maintain democratic law and order."

New Armistice Looms "War to End All Wars" Over 25 Years Ago Today

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Armistice—the intoxicating news of peace—came to Europe just a quarter of a century ago today, hushing the guns of a bloody world conflict that snuffed the lives of 8,538,000 men, wounded 21,219,000, spread inconceivable anguish, pain, ruin and scars.

It came Nov. 11, 1918, at the 11th hour, on the 11th day, in the 11th month, after 4,000,000 men had been mobilized, after more than half-37,000,000 European prisoners and missing were casualties.

At that hour Germany surrendered and fearfully hushed victory came to the four major powers—Britain, France, the United States and Italy. Across the Pacific, Japan shared in the triumph after near-via, German overthrow by revolution, which surrendered to Germany March 2, 1918.

World Again Marks Ending Of First War

Today, rising irresistibly on the road to victory, Allied people look hopefully to "another armistice ending a greater war."

But it appears still some hard months away. Prime Minister Churchill predicted the end of the war in Europe in 1944, after bloody invasion, after battles more terrible than Waterloo and Gettysburg.

Continuing conflict in the Orient is likely—perhaps for long—after armistice comes again to Europe.

CASUALTIES HIGH

Casualties again total millions—estimated at 20,000,000 so far—but more exact figures will not be available until after the war. The figure includes soldiers, civilians killed, but does not include millions wounded, made homeless, or starving and ill.

This conflict dwarfs the first in scope, in cost in blood, men and wealth. The first Great War was confined mainly to one continent, Europe, spilling over upon Africa and Asia. This has flamed in ethnic struggle across the continents and all the seas, mobilized far greater numbers of soldiers, harnessed an entire world's resources to the war.

Today the big four Allied powers are Britain, the United States, Russia and China, with 100,000,000 British Commonwealth troops, 100,000,000 American troops, 100,000,000 Chinese troops, and 100,000,000 Russian troops in active combat. There are 33 countries in the United Nations pact.

AXIS LINE-UP

Opposing are Germany, Japan and their satellites, including Hungary, Rumania, Italy, Bulgaria and smaller contingents such as Croatia, Slovenia, Thailand and Burma.

Major differences today are China holding the enemy in East Asia and Russia waging the greatest victory in land warfare in Europe. In Mr. Churchill's words, "the world is now a machine in blows that may well prove mortal."

Knocked out are France, by Germany, June 22, 1940, and Italy, by the Allies, Sept. 1, 1943. Italy, a victor in 1943, is vanquished. France awaits liberation. Japan, strangled by the sea, will face death of her empire.

WORLD'S CAPITALS REJOICED AS 'DEADLINE' WAS ENDED BY 'RUSSIAN LANDSTORM'

LONDON, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The world's capital cities rejoiced as the deadline of the world's first war was ended by the Russian land storm.

In Paris four days of fighting on their own earth had sobered the world, but the Russian land storm was ended released their highest spirits.

Belgium had survived an ordeal which turned much of her soil into a desolate and her people into a people of the dead.

In London, the storm in the British leader disclosed and gave a kind of madness in Trafalgar Square, Piccadilly, Whitehall, and the Strand, Fleet Street.

RIOTOUS RELEASE

Canada and the United States gave themselves up to riotous release.

In the cities of the defeated, ordinary folk were glad. Soldiers at the front, meantime, invoked that skepticism which they have learned to cultivate in themselves deep disappointment.

Peace lasted, despite the day of violent retching and tossing, until a certain autumn when the world was filled again with the sound of cannon-fire. Armistice Day became a day of hate.

Not until Nov. 11, 1942, were there glimmers of success and peace, with prospects of peace and peace, vowing unconvincing confidence, people are thinking that they might see the practice day year celebrating.

The eagerness for peace has prompted more premature but understandable actions. Hotels have reservations for armistice day dinners. Restaurants have been made for dances and house parties. Women are getting out their diamond gowns, in dress like 1918.

NERVOUS STRAINING

All this, doubtless, is no more than a nervous straining toward the end, inevitable after a long stretch of abnormal life. It is a caution, it is a warning, it is a society, the same tendency to play a very even when things are going well, minimizing victories and agreeing that plenty of trouble probably lies ahead, are observable in most places.

Still, things are different. The people have taken themselves to a more expressive opinion, though out of habit they inevitably make it conditional.

Armistice day of 1943, they see, forebodes an end of the war, very against what Nov. 11 is presumed to stand for.

The 2,000 striking miners in the Crown's New Field will be represented, at three meetings today in an attempt to get them back into the mines. After the Perekop area, the Red army moved on to the Crimean peninsula, and in the north, strong artillery and armor northwest of Chernivtsy, an attempt to break through.

Everywhere the Red army was reported in complete control of the situation and able to redistribute its forces at will for striking wherever it might choose.

Soviet armored spearheads were only 50 miles from the Kozent-Zimernitskiy railway, the German-held longitudinal line in the Ukraine.

Sweeping up more than 60 towns and villages in 24 hours, the Soviet command sent columns racing due westward, 40 miles to the high road to Zhitomir southwest along the railway to Zhenkivka and northwest along another railway to Kozent.

Rich booty was gathered by the advancing forces, but the Germans blew up 19 of their tanks and eight big self-propelled guns in one sector. Some 70 tanks, 27 tanks and 50 armored cars were captured.

Mr. King said that the intention of the government to make an early appointment of a high commissioner to India.

He forecast that today's creation of Washington's first embassy that Canada's diplomatic service has ever established would be "followed logically by the creation of other legations to ambassadorial status."

Although threatening weather prevailed, an early start was made by voters in the first hour, the rain kept off until late in the afternoon when a steady rain fell for several hours, but cleared before 8 p.m. to give electors two clear hours before the polls closed.

Although the voting time was extended by 30 minutes this year many failed to arrive at the polls in time to cast their ballots, deputy returning officers reported.

There were no untoward incidents at any of the polls and the election machinery functioned perfectly. Throughout the day the information bureau set up in the city administration was kept busy advising voters where to vote, and also giving other election information.

effs destined for post-war advancement and development. I believe the citizens can face the future encouraged by past events and justifiably hopeful of those events to come.

Naturally I am proud to be its mayor. Any man should be proud to be the mayor of a city with such a bright future.

Just prior to the election the city commissioners presented their annual civic administration review. It was a report of facts. They were the facts of a year of amazingly good, healthy civic development.

As I start into my seventh year as the chief magistrate of the city, I can promise to the citizens that we do all I can to bring them another such report next year. I feel I have done a good job. With the confidence of the people as this expressed in today's election, I am confident I can continue to do a good job.

T. J. CAIRNS, Independent candidate for mayor: I feel satisfied with the campaign, despite the fact I did not win election in my first venture in politics. I am satisfied that I received a good hearing during the campaign.

One splendid feature of the campaign, to my mind, was the complete absence of mudslinging. Mayor Fry was a perfect gentleman throughout the campaign.

To those who gave me their support I tender my sincere thanks. I congratulate Mayor Fry on his victory and urge all citizens to support him throughout the coming year.

I was more than pleased with the coverage of addresses by The Edmonton Bulletin. The paper was fair and accurate throughout the campaign.

ALD. H. D. ANSLAY, C.C.F.-Lab candidate for alderman: The Edmonton Bulletin management and staff are deserving of congratulations on their coverage of the election campaign. That paper gave the news of the campaign fairly and without prejudice.

I wish to thank all those who supported me with their votes and worked on my behalf during the campaign.

The most disappointing thing about the election to me was the lack of interest. The total vote cast is a disgrace. The people of democracy are being fought for in a world struggle to maintain our way of life.

The small vote leads to the destiny of the municipality being in the hands of a small minority. And this in the end is a highly dangerous thing.

I regret that the city loses the services of Mrs. Clarke and Guy Patterson. These two have always been diligent attention to the affairs of the city and have deserving of better consideration at the hands of the electorate.

It was unfortunate that the city saw fit to continue the blackout on election night. This kept many people away from the polls, and was a real hardship in the outlying districts.

JAMES M. DOUGLAS, Citizens' Committee, candidate for alderman: I am highly pleased with the results of the election. I am more than delighted that the attempt to interject politics into civic affairs has met with failure. I wish to thank all those who supported me and other candidates on the Citizens' Committee slate.

I would like in particular to pay a special tribute to The Edmonton Bulletin for the splendid coverage it gave to the campaign. It was very satisfactory.

J. H. DOWLER, C.C.F. candidate for alderman: Naturally I am sorry we were not elected. I think it is a case of the labor people not turning out to vote. But we will stick right to our guns and try again next year.

I wish to congratulate the press, and The Edmonton Bulletin in particular, for the splendid coverage given the campaign.

M. M. DOWNEY, Citizens' Committee candidate for alderman: I personally appreciate very much the votes of the electors, not only for the vote given me but to the Citizens' Committee candidates in general, under whose auspices I was a candidate.

And I doubly appreciate the coverage The Edmonton Bulletin gave the addresses of all candidates during the election campaign.

The Bulletin gave my own address complete and accurate coverage and I wish to further congratulate that paper on the fine manner in which it reported the campaign.

A. P. GREGORY, C.C.F. Labor: We just have to take a licking with a smile. I think it was a case of many people not using their franchise. It is true that the will of the majority must prevail but when few persons bother to vote I'm afraid we cannot say we are getting representative government.

Personally I am not disappointed with the vote. I was a new man to civic elections and I probably received as much support as I could expect under the circumstances.

I still believe the C.C.F. will come to the fore.

We are enjoying a temporary prosperity due entirely to the war. Conditions sooner or later will call for a remedy and the C.C.F. will furnish it.

I was very well pleased with the way The Edmonton Bulletin reported the campaign. The reports were accurate and entirely free of prejudice.

GUY PATTERSON, K.C., Civic Progressive, alderman: The coverage of my speeches during the campaign has been fair, balanced, and I appreciate it very much.

V. A. PORTER, Citizens' Committee, alderman: It is certainly a pity that the whole campaign was so far as we are concerned. The candidates I thought were very fair throughout the whole campaign and I am certainly pleased that the Citizens' Committee candidates made such a good showing.

The Edmonton Bulletin gave very satisfactory coverage of the election and everything was thoroughly reported throughout the whole campaign.

THOMAS MALONE, Separate School Board, returned by acclamation: I am very pleased to hear of the re-election of Mayor Fry.

J. A. GALLANT, Separate School Board, returned by acclamation: I am certainly pleased to hear of the return and I think they are very satisfactory. With Mayor Fry re-elected, we can look forward to good administration for another year.

WILLIAM J. WILDE, Separate School Board, returned by acclamation: The result is very satisfactory. I think I might have fared better if I thought would happen.

Mayor Fry deserves to go back.

F. J. NEWSON, Citizens' Committee, school board: On the whole I think the campaign was fairly well conducted to fill the gap. I regard my own election as a tribute by the people to the Citizens' Committee and a gesture of confidence to myself which I think the campaign was fairly well conducted to fill the gap.

Sports . . . Roundup
By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The way of Notre Dame football that has been sweeping New York apparently hasn't engulfed the pro footballers. We asked Buff Donnell, assistant coach of the one-voiced Dodgers, whether he felt the answer was first dead silence, then a mumbled remark that they haven't had any real opposition . . . incidentally, there's a pretty well founded report kicking around that Notre Dame athletes, who still are opposed to post-season games, may have to yield to pressure for a war bond game on the west coast.

On the Skids:
When he heard that coach Kirby Lambauer of the Green Bay Packers had shifted his headquarters from the bench to the press box, Cornell's Carl Snavely figured out an improvement on the idea . . . Some day, he decided, the suit as well as the coaches could watch from high in the stands and get a clearer picture of the game . . . "We could send in a sub on a chair," kidded Carl.

Shouts and Shells:
Kitty Slinkovich, flat-foot Frank's sister who did a neat job of hurling on a Youngstown, O., baseball softball team before joining the WACS, tells friends: "Football bore me and always has, but softball—there's a game."

Slack Shick:
Chick Wergles, who manages to keep busy by publicizing pro football and college basketball, was watching the Dodgers-Cardinals game Sunday when Brooklyn sent a flanker far out to one side . . . "They're going to throw a collateral pass, watch," Chuck announced . . . Much to everyone's surprise, it was a lateral, and Chuck muffed with pride . . . "I know them guys' signals like a book," he explained.

INVENTED VENT:
Joseph LaLonde, a French aviator, in 1895, devised a circular net in the top of a parachute, a feature which has been used in parachutes down to the present time.

Wiede Expected Join Hawks Soon
CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Things looked a little rosier for Chicago Black Hawks hockey team Wednesday.

President Bill Tobin said prospects were good that Art Wiede, veteran defense man, who joined the team in about two weeks, would be a dog masher.

(1) between one and five years old; (2) of a militant type; (3) over 20 inches in height; (4) more than 50 lbs. in weight; and (5) not too shy. If your pooch happens to be 1-4-F, he's got lots of company.

ST. BARNESY ROSS OF THE
St. Barnese, former lightweight champion, soon may write a book on "Practical Fat Fighting," in which he will disclose a brand new method of losing weight, and a method almost guaranteed to develop any youngster into a knockout fighter within five months.

Notre Dame, New York's favorite football visitor each year, is scheduled to visit the Fighting Irish on Nov. 14, when the Irish host the Madisons Square Garden, Feb. 15, will be the 10th consecutive year that the Irish have defeated the Notre Dame basketball teams at that emporium.

They haven't missed a year since the last-drawn-able game went into time in the east and moved into the racing.

Reason For Not Switching
Some Clubs Haven't Talent That Modern "T" Requires
By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—There is so much talk of the T formation that one would suspect it was something new. Gus Dorais faded back as the man down under the T when he popularized the pass with tosses to Knute Rockne and others as little-known Notre Dame smothered Army at West Point, 35-13, in 1913.

Yet the backs of Dorais-drilled teams of later years and his current professional Detroit Lions run from the regular Notre Dame box, and he has fair to middling passes, one of whom is Frankie Sinkwich.

Dorais will not switch to the T, although he admits a T team has the greater opportunity of shaking receivers free. Sid Luckman of the Bears has an edge over Sammy Baugh of the Redskins, for example.

The reason Dorais and other top rank coaches are not switching back to the T is that the formation requires specialists.

NEEDS GOOD PASSER
No team gets very far with the T without a superlative passer and at least one explosive runner.

"Give me a good center, passer, a 210-pound smashing fullback, and two good ends and I'll win with the T," says Clark Shaughnessy of Pittsburgh.

Any capable coach will score with that type of material, whether he employs the single or double wing or just an old-fashioned mass formation.

Any capable coach will score with that type of material, whether he employs the single or double wing or just an old-fashioned mass formation.

Coaches can depend on coming up with remarkable passers, ball handlers and vicious line backers, which is why they stick with the single wing. The consensus is that more can be done with average material from the single wing.

WILL WEAR OUT
Angelo Bertelli had his finest year as a sophomore with the Irish passing from the Notre Dame box that shifted right or left. Don Hutson caught passes at Alabama thrown by Dixie Howell from varieties of the Notre Dame box.

Benny Friedman and Harry Newman of Michigan pitched from a punt formation.

Sammy Baugh and Davey O'Brien of Texas Christian threw from the double and single wing. Hutson went on to become the American Red Cross for the armed services.

The first mild winter was law in the New Zealand industrial conflict and arbitration act of 1941.

This Is the End

George Cullen To Play Today For Roughriders

REGINA, Nov. 11.—(CP)—Sgt. George Cullen will be available for backfield duty when Regina All-Services Roughriders make their bid for a western football title here today against Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers.

Winnipeg leads 1-0 in the total point series.

Cullen missed the playoff opening last week end because of an infected ear, but returned to practice yesterday as "Riders completed training."

However, Coach Dean Griffing does not intend to change the lineup that gave Winnipeg a surprise in the first game. Lar. Harry Johnson will again start in the backfield.

A dry, hard field is the promise for the first game on the practice and Roughriders admit that suits their bottle plans. They hint they will go to the aid and fully expect to come out of the game as winners.

The game starts at 3:30 p.m. Winnipeg time.

"Beered-up" Bear Misses Hangover
GREAT FALLS, Mont., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Game warden Bruce Neal, answering a complaint that a bear had broken into a duplex where some beer was cached, found the animal frolicking in a tree.

On the ground was the evidence—several dozen broken beer bottles. The animal, Neal said, evidently was "grossly drunk."

The bear missed the hangover. Neal shot it.

Glorious Soldier Dead and Honored at Moving Services

Memorial Hall, Cenotaph
Are Scenes of Impressive
Outpouring of Residents

With the shadows from the present world conflict growing lighter, Edmonton military and civilian organizations Thursday joined in tribute to the glorious dead of the First Great War.

Hundreds jammed the Canadian Legion Memorial Hall for a service conducted by the Rev. Tremblay, who had over hundreds—thousands in all—stood in bowed silence at the Cenotaph as leading military, government and civil officials paid further tribute to the memory of those who gave their lives in the great struggle for freedom that terminated in the armistice on Nov. 11, 1918.

With the boom of cannon signaling the hour of 11 a.m. there was a pause of two minutes throughout the city as men and women recalled in bowed silence the sacrifices of those who have died in the cause of liberty and in solemn contemplation of the fresh sacrifices being made at the present time.

His Honor Lt.-Gen. J. C. Bowen, lieutenant-governor of Alberta, attended the service in the Memorial Hall and later marched to the Cenotaph in a parade headed by veterans of the last war from the Canadian Legion, Canadian Corps and Army and Navy veterans.

A unique feature of the Remembrance Day observances this year was the participation by the armed forces of the United States.

The parade was headed by the Canadian Legion pipe band and was under the direction of Maj. R. C. Arthur.

The R.C.N.V.R. units of Canadian and U.S. forces and a C.W.A.C. detachment, air force units and the bands of the R.C.A.F. establishments in Edmonton, participated in the march to the Cenotaph.

Last Post and Reveille, marked the opening and closing of the day.

Tells of Highway Officer Tells Of Importance Alaska Highway

The building of the Alaska Military Highway ranks in importance with the construction of the Panama Canal, said Brig. Gen. L. D. Wortham, commanding officer of the Northwest Division, U.S. Engineers, who told members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce that the construction of the Alaska Highway ranked in importance with the building of the Panama Canal.

He said that 1700 men were working for 3000 feet, and that their labors had speeded the highway to completion.

Since Nov. 1 the contractors of the Public Roads Administration had been maintaining the highway along the highway taken over by maintenance crews.

There are still a few bridges to be completed this year, but essentially the work of the highway has been finished," he said.

They Are Remembered

The Edmonton Cenotaph, erected in memory of "Our Glorious Dead" of the Great War of 1914-18, at which profoundly moving ceremonies were held Thursday. Main feature of the day was the parade of returned men and returned war veterans, sponsored by the Canadian Legion. United States soldiers took part. In addition many other groups and individuals laid wreaths on the Cenotaph.

Bank clearings through the Edmonton Clearing House for the week ended Thursday, Nov. 11, amounted to $8,909,782. Clearings for the corresponding period in 1942 were $7,122,645.11.

Thorton Graham, president of Western Supplies Limited, is leaving today to attend the annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating, being held next week in the Royal York hotel, Toronto.

Victory bonds totalling $1,106 will be presented to lucky ticket holders at the final night of the Lions' Club Mincingival Thursday. The show is being held in the McCauley Community hall, 30 street and 100 avenue.

City police investigated Wednesday a complaint that trees on the Fifth Street golf course were being cut. The cutting took place in the early evening or during the night, it was believed by the greenkeeper, who stated that he was around the premises throughout the day, during which time he saw no one about.

W. G. McLeister, provincial agent, addressed members of the Edmonton and District Beeskeepers' Association Wednesday night. He outlined the progress of the association and district has decreased greatly in the last year. Recommendations brought forth at the meeting will be formed into resolutions and presented to the convention of the Alberta Beeskeepers' Association, to be held shortly in Calgary.

Because his 22-year-old son never comes without a car, telling them that they were worried, parents of the young informed city police early Wednesday in reporting his disappearance in the family car. Police were looking for the car, but the son had returned home without the auto. Not until late Wednesday did the third report make, stating that the vehicle had been recovered, after a search by father and son.

Channel Island refugees will benefit by $41, raised by a group of women who conducted an auction of things in the Alberta Avenue Community hall. More than 200 people attended the fund-raising event. The committee was composed of Mrs. T. DeBourcier, Mrs. F. A. Moe, Mrs. C. E. Payne and Mrs. E. Jeanette. The proceeds will be sent to Britain to aid refugees there from the Channel Islands.

With motor vehicles at a premium, and with some humans too weak to resist and control their own, one trucker, anxious to put his machine, decided to pull it in a place where all could see it, but where no one would take it. He drove it into the police station, locked a "for sale" sign on it, and walked away. The traffic department is casting a critical eye on the vehicle, which can be abandoned for being left on a city street.

Girl Is Missing From City Home
Disappearance of 13-year-old Joyce Ward, 10619 104 street, was reported to city authorities Wednesday after she had not been heard from after leaving home on Monday morning.

The girl was described as being five feet five inches tall, weighing 160 pounds, of dark complexion, she has hazel eyes, dark hair, and was wearing a tweed coat, black skirt, white blouse and yellow athletic wear and shoes.

McCauley Concert Friday at Bremner Friday

The McCauley Concert Group of Edmonton will present a variety concert at Bremner on Friday. It will be the group's second visit there, and the concert will be followed by an old-time dance.

Sponsor of the event is the Bremner branch of the Red Cross. Proceeds will go to the city's Canadian Fund.

Recently the McCauley group held a rally for a toy fund donated by Miss Annie Fisher of the National Institute for the Blind. The winner of the draw was Marie Marchew, 11103 94 street. Miss Fisher previously donated a victory cushion to the McCauley group to be raffled in aid of the fund.

Garage Burns
Fire destroyed a small garage at the rear of 10132 88 street at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, and was believed to have been caused by an electrical short. The building, owned by Peter Delid, residing at the above address, was empty at the time. Halls 1 and 2 responded.

Communities Give Trophy For Voting
The Federation of Community Leagues is donating a cup for competition among the 23 communities leagues in Edmonton to the league which gets the highest percentage of votes polled in its district. There are also three cash prizes, first, second, $20, second $10, and third $5.

The leagues were asked to do their best to get all community citizens to tag out and vote in the election. The leagues feel that interest in the election was lagging and people should be urged to make use of their franchise.

The Hudson's Bay Company store donated a window display on the Federation with the prize cup on show.

A new association interested in civic affairs of particular interest to women and to be known as the Jay Cee Club, was formed here at a meeting in the basement of the Western Building Wednesday night.

The organization, which is expected to parallel in some extent the activities of the Edmonton Junior Chamber of Commerce, will later draft a program and constitution.

Membership will be open to any Edmonton woman interested. With the Junior Chamber of Commerce members are especially urged to join.

A temporary organization committee, composed of the following was chosen at Wednesday's meeting: Mrs. Maxine Webber, Mrs. Gordon Campbell, Mrs. Verne Sade, Mrs. J. E. Williams, Mrs. Lloyd and Mrs. Strong.

PLAN DAY NURSERY
One of the benefits for Edmonton of the new association will be to the C.A.F. under command of Wm. C. E. G. Macpherson, has been awarded a permit for the holding of establishments of more than 500 persons in the recent Fifth Victory Loan, it was announced Thursday.

Two permits were awarded, one for establishments in excess of 500 personnel and the other for those of less than 500 persons.

No. 4 L.T.C. started out in the loan with an objective of $3000 but actually purchased bonds totaling $112,150. A big feature of No. 4 L.T.C. was the large number of new subscribers as many as 5000.

No. 3 N.C. was second among the units of No. 4 Air Training Command. No. 2 Hewlett Centre stood third in the group of 300 or less.

No. 10 A.I.D. stood fourth. No. 4 I.T.S. subscribed $8,000 by the time the campaign ended.

An application by Canadian Pacific Air Lines, western line, to Ottawa, asking permission to extend airplane service from North Battleford to Edmonton, was endorsed by the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce council Wednesday at a luncheon meeting in the Corona.

Reg. T. Rose, executive-secretary, made the announcement Thursday. No new flights would be put into operation, officials stated, as under the proposed set-up CPA would use existing fields at Vermilion, Lloydminster, North Battleford, Regina, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw and Prince Albert. There would be no beam service for the planes, they would be contract operated.

Large aircraft, mainly Boeings, would be used and two trips daily would be made, it was stated.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Service Improves Some Harms Others, All Vary New Places, Experiences, Ideas Expected to Show Effect When Soldiers Come Home; Some Benefit From Experiences

DEAR MISS DIX: I have come to a place where I know not where to turn or what to do. My husband went overseas three years ago and I am now with five children, all of whom are nearly grown. I have done what I thought was best for them and tried to have them do as he wished. He is home now and is very dissatisfied with everyone and says that we have all changed.

Of course, we have. The children are all young men and women now. Three of them have married. All have done well. One son and one son-in-law are in the army. At home we have tried to make things pleasant for him, but he is restless and dissatisfied, always saying what fine people the English are and what great times he had over there. He passed as a single man in England and had the company of young women and isn't content with me now, nor will he take responsibility for the home.

I have also found out that he is going out with a young woman here when he tells me he is on duty. I am proud of my grandchildren, but he doesn't want to be called Grandfather. He wants to enjoy the freedom of a young single man.

If my husbands are coming home to find like this, what are we to do? And what thanks do we get for keeping the home fires burning?

PERPLEXED WIFE

Answer: No man can go through the war without being changed. He comes out of it just the same as he was in, but his mind and his feelings are made better. Others worse. But all will be different. It will depend upon the man's own character, how he develops, just as it depends upon the quality of the grapefruit which he turns into fine wine or vinegar.

A man such as your husband must have had always in him a loving spirit. If he had lived in a domestic life working hard at his trade, spending his evenings at home and meeting few people, he might have been a contented, happy man. But he is not. He is a man who has been changed by the war. He is a man who has been changed by the war. He is a man who has been changed by the war.

New places, new experiences, new ideas, new people, a new freedom, they were his dish, and you need not tell yourself into thinking that he will ever relapse homebound bread and butter again.

One of the reactions of the soldier that we get from the front is that he is a man who is not content with the life he is living. He is a man who is not content with the life he is living. He is a man who is not content with the life he is living.

But this is an impossible dream. Time does stand still on the home front any more than it does on the firing line. And

"The Doctor's Daughters"

By FAITH BALDWIN

THE SECRET: When Doctor Hall announces he is about to stage a surprise wedding of his two daughters, Emily and Nancy, to the surprise of the town, the girls are interested. Emily, a visiting nurse, is glad because she will see her father at night. Nancy, however, is not so interested. She thinks it may be an antidote to boredom.

CHAPTER III

"KEEP your hands off Jim Thompson," Nancy's father warned her. "I want an assistant who'll have his mind on his work. Practice your attention on someone else."

Emily got to her feet. She said: "I did a sketchy washing-up at headquarters, and I've just time for a bath before supper. Bye, you two."

"They were silent for a moment after the left. Then the doctor said soundly:

"I wish the boys all right. I'll take her word for it." "Would he live with the Morgans?" asked Nancy. "No, right here. Board and lodging to be part of the bargain. He could have his room," said her father, "we'd fix them up and put in a telephone extension."

Mat had been Doctor Hall's bachelor brother. He'd come out of the first World War badly injured and mildly shell-shocked. David had made over the top floor of the garage for him and there he had lived quietly and contentedly. Since his death the rooms had stood empty.

"Mother," commented Nancy thoughtfully, "may not be too pleased."

"She can't have it both ways," said her father shortly.

HOLD EVERYTHING

When they reached their big, many-windowed room Millie took off her hat and tossed it on the bed. She said, with animation:

"Well, there's news. 'What news?' asked David. He went into the bathroom and spotted presently over the roar of descending stairs."

Millie raised her light, true voice. "Frank Edgar's coming home."

"Furiously," shouted David. Millie shook her head. She said:

"Discharged!" There was a brief silence and then David came back into the room in a shabby bathrobe. He was toweling his damp hair vigorously.

"Buries?" he inquired. "Buries," reported Millie. "Edgar called it perforated eardrum. I think. Would that be right?"

"Well, if it isn't old 'Stinky' Smith! How's the boy, Stinky?"

"Laff-a-day!"

"Twenty-five cents for a soda? What time does the floor show go on?"

David Hall never saw his wife—really saw her, that is—with-out a slight sense of astonishment. They had been married for twenty-seven years but he was continually amazed because she had married him. She was no bigger than Nancy and her figure was almost as good, her hair very nearly as bright.

She came down the walk toward him now and slipped her arm in his.

"Break any band-aging records today?"

"No. I seemed to be all thumbs."

"She sighed. 'But Millie serves such marvelous food and far too much. I'll have to diet,' she said confidentially. 'For weeks I wish you'd give me thyroid, darling.'"

"Idiot," said her husband. "Of course I won't give you thyroid. You women are crazy."

"A little while ago."

"She works too hard," said Millie. "If only you hadn't encouraged her in this absurd—"

It was an old argument. "She likes her work," said David, "and her patients adore her. She's a good nurse, Millie."

"She's twenty-six," said his wife, "and at her age I was married and had two children. She'll be an old maid first thing you know."

"She began to climb the wide, curving stairs, sliding her hand along a rail polished for generations by the touch of hands long since dust. David followed slowly.

People are often laughed at for their painstaking cleanliness, for their daily showers or baths, for their passion for clean linen and their pride in an immaculate appearance. Several years ago when I was in Seville, Spain, it was a subject of amusement among the servants at the hotel that the American was insisting upon a daily tub bath, and many young Spanish maids brought large pitchers of hot water and emptied them into an 18th century bath tub so that I could perform my daily ablution. Even in this country, too, when I sought to perform my daily ablution, it was not my intention today to write a column on the value of personal cleanliness, but rather to emphasize the necessity of fighting germs by fighting filth. It is an established fact that when you remove the garbage, the flies disappear. It is true that when the poisons, wastes and garbage are removed from the body, disease germs cannot root. Dr. Frank McCoy always pronounced the idea that disease could not arise in a healthy body and this is borne out in practical experience in everyday life. Scientists tell us that we are constantly breathing in pneumonia germs, but we get them, yet we do not "catch" pneumonia or tuberculosis unless our resistance is so low that these invaders can get a foothold, multiply and flourish. Viruses, bacteria and smallpox and the plague were very common in India some 50 years ago, and indeed, there were a multitude in this country. However, with India's 200 million people it is hardly reasonable to suppose that the authorities diligently vaccinated these millions against infection, they did not, but they did install modern hygiene and sanitation, removed the filthy breeding places of disease germs, and the result has been a living testimony to the necessity for public health measures. Even in this country, much has yet to be done to improve the health of the people by preventive measures, such as cleaning up slums, and seeing that the underprivileged gets sufficient fresh air and sunlight, and proper food and nourishment to build strong bodies which are resistant to infection. America is ahead of any other country in this effort, and the results obtained in the past few years is evidence that we are already enjoying a "new order" in health. This cleanup campaign is a one man job... a job for each and every man, woman and child, to increase the efficiency and health of the nation, through a deliberate and planned cleanliness effort.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address: McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1111 West 5th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

ALLIES NOW READY To Blast Japanese From Strongholds

PEARL HARBOR, T.H. Nov. 11.—(AP)—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said yesterday "We now have the means to take the offensive and to blast the Jap out of his island strongholds."

"We propose to do this in the most direct manner," said the commander-in-chief of the United States Pacific fleet, "and while that time comes the leathernecks will be in the thick of the fray."

Nimitz spoke at a celebration of the United States Marine Corps' 100th anniversary.

Fuel-Saving Suggestions!

Recently Given by the Department of Munitions and Supply

• Cement air leaks, where flue pipe joins chimney.

• Clean your furnace and flue pipes thoroughly.

• Putty loose window panes.

• Put up double windows early.

• Caulk windows and door frames and weatherstrip the sash.

• Insulate your roof, if possible.

• Don't force the furnace for that hard-to-heat room; have the heating system corrected before the fire is lit.

• Close unused rooms; it's best to have the radiator drained and disconnected.

• Caulk wall breaks both inside and out.

• Use your fireplace instead of furnace in early Fall and Spring; in Winter time close the fireplace off to prevent draughts.
